OLEOMARGARINE MAKER LOSES SUIT FOR REBATE

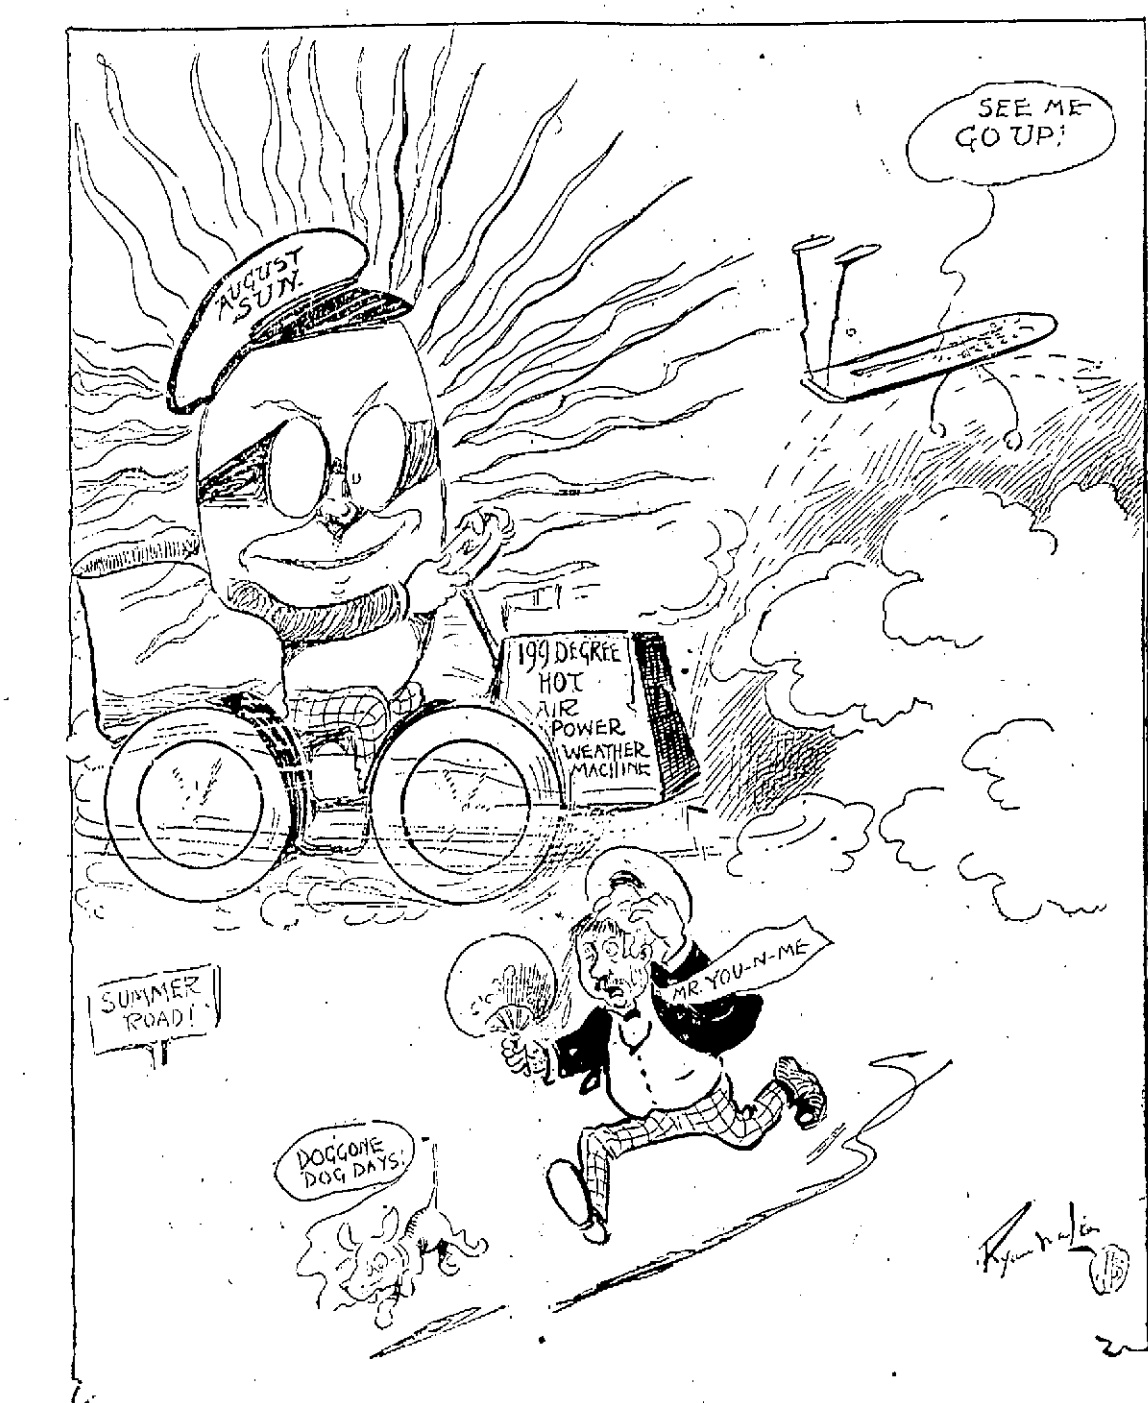

Manufacturer's Effort to Recover Revenue Tax on Article Colored With Palm Oil Proves Futile.
Chicago, Aug. 2.—The anti-oleomargarine bill has won another victory in the federal courts. Judge Grosscup gave a decision adverse to William J. Moxley in his latest attempt to get around the law and ruled he must pay the full 10 cent tax on all colored oleomargarine. In this case Mr. Moxley had paid the tax amounting to $300,000, under protest, and brought suit to recover it. He had discovered that by adding palm oil to oleomargarine the desired butter color was obtained, and at the same time, as he claimed, the quality of the product was improved. Judge Grosscup, however, ruled against him. The manufacturer set up that the addition of the palm oil was necessary to the desired improvement in the quality of the oleomargarine and the fact that it changed the color of the product should not be taken into consideration, or, it considered at all, be regarded as an incidental happening. The court held, however, that the purpose of the addition of the oil was to change the color, and it was not a necessary ingredient in the product of the Moxley factories. Mr. Moxley will take the case to the United States court of appeals.

MOTORMAN GOES MAD OVER TWO TRAGEDIES
Describes Death of Child to Young Woman, Who Falls From Car in Faint and Fractures Skull.
New Haven, Conn., Aug. 2.—Earl B. Brown, a motorman, was running his car at a high speed along Kimberley avenue when Elsie Foley, seven years old, ran on the tracks in front of his car. Brown could not check the car and with a score of horrified persons looking on, the heavy trucks swept over the child and she was instantly killed.
An experienced inspector of the road relieved the motorman from duty and he boarded a following car to go to his home. He took a front seat on which was Miss Josephine McCormick, nineteen years old, an acquaintance of his family. Noticing his distress she asked him the cause of it.
Brown was highly excited, due to the experience he had just gone through, and began describing the accident in a graphic manner. Miss McCormick was so carried away by his description of the death of the little child she fainted and toppled headlong from the car. Brown sprang to her side in an instant, but the young woman's skull had been fractured and she died in a few minutes.
Brown lost control of his mind with the two quickly succeeding tragedies before him, and he was taken to his home in a serious condition.

NEW ORLEANS TESTS MOSQUITO THEORY

Epidemic of Yellow Fever Gives Opportunity to Test the Theories.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New Orleans, La., August 2.—The business men of New Orleans have about completed arrangements for a campaign, the object of which is to prove that a scientific application of the "mosquito" theory in yellow fever will stamp out the disease, even after it has gained unmistakable headway in a large city. The plan is to cope with the fever as Havana did, treating it by isolation, disinfection and fumigation and rendering future quarantines from the land a useless relic of the ignorant past. The business men will be assisted in their campaign by the Board of Health and other prominent citizens and the result of their scheme is awaited with interest.

WITTE ARRIVES FOR PEACE CONFERENCE

Russian Ambassador on This Important Question Lands in New York Today.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, August 2.—M. Witte, the senior Russian peace plenipotentiary, accompanied by the members of his suite arrived here today on the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, of the North German Lloyd Company from Cherbourg. He was met by the Russian ambassador and several members of the Russian Embassy who arrived here last night. Where they are spending their vacation, to greet the Czar's principal peace envoy. M. Witte refused to be interviewed regarding the concessions that his country is willing to make to Japan. He said: "Discretion imposes silence regarding the exact details of the program of my mission. The Emperor has directed me to enter into particulars with the Japanese plenipotentiaries to learn if it is possible to conclude peace. This is such a definite task that my personal opinion amounts to little. The Emperor will have the final decision. I shall merely follow the precise instructions which I have received from his Majesty and shall continue to receive."
M. Witte will be the guest of Ambassador Rosen until the formal meeting of the plenipotentiaries take place. Although he discreetly refuses to talk, it is understood that one of the chief aims of M. Witte is to bring about an alliance between Russia and Japan, believing that with such an understanding, the two countries might be able to control the Far East. It is further believed that the possibility of later coming to terms with England is regarded as feasible and logical.

Nearly every state in the Union is represented and the movement is led by Bishop McFarland of Trenton, N. J., supported by all the archbishops, bishops and priests of the United States. The Federation, it is explained, is a sort of grievance committee, going around seeking sore spots in the Catholic body and striving to apply a salve. Its purpose is to cement friendship between Catholics and non-Catholics and a vigorous campaign will be started during the convention upon educational lines for the purpose of banishing ignorance with regard to Catholic doctrines and Catholics.

Hagasaki, August 2.—The steamer Manchuria, having on board Secretary of War Taft and his party including Miss Alice Roosevelt, arrived here today en route to Manila and the distinguished guests received another ovation only lacking in importance to the one at Tokyo by the absence of the imperial family. They were not, however, by the American Consul and local Japanese officials, while crowds assembled at the wharf yelled "bonzai, bonzai." The streets in the vicinity of the dock were jammed and all the city was bright with decorations, conspicuous among which were the flags of Japan and the United States.

SITUATION IS CRITICAL NOW

Hot Wave And Rain Last Night In New Orleans May Cause Spread Of Disease.

LOUISIANA AND MISSISSIPPI CLASH

Question Of Guarding Against Spread Of Disease Causes Much Dispute Between Officials Of Both States.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-MORAN.]
New Orleans, Aug. 2.—The yellow fever situation is not so favorable today. The extreme heat and last night's rains increased the danger of spread and jeopardized the patients. The rain washed the oil from the gutters. Squads are at work today replenishing. It is expected that a number of cases will be reported today. One case was reported yesterday at Montgomery, Ala., that of William Munnell, a planter who was stricken at the Montgomery Hotel. It is directly traceable to Kentwood, La.
Sign Petition.
The petition signed by a majority of brokers on the Cotton Exchange was circulated asking the United States government to take charge of the fever crusade and direct Surgeon General Wyman to assume full command of the situation.
Two More Deaths.
Up to noon today two deaths and one new case was reported. The weather is against fever patients this afternoon, being cloudy and sultry. The health officials are investigating suspicious cases at Milneburg, a pleasure resort seven miles out. Albert Baldwin, a millionaire banker of this city, who owns a home on the golf just beyond the state line, says the Mississippi troops, so the keeper declares, camped there despite the orders of Baldwin's son, Young Baldwin applied for a federal injunction which must if granted be served upon the captain commanding by the United States marshal.
Will Investigate.
Governor Vardaman of Mississippi left this morning for the Gulf coast to investigate the reports that Mississippi troops had invaded Louisiana territory. He declined to discuss the demands made by Governor Blanchard to keep his guards at home. He said he would make a statement after a rigid investigation.
May Cause a Clash.
There is a possibility that Louisiana and Louisiana are on the verge of a serious clash as a result of the invasion of this state by Mississippi quarantine guards. Governor Vardaman's militiamen guarding the state line on the Louisville & Nashville railroad are reported to have extended their patrol to Dunbar, three miles inside the limits of Louisiana. The situation was made more critical when it was learned that for the last week Mississippi patrol boats have been lying five miles inside the Louisiana line on Lake Borgne, and during that time have seized eighteen Louisiana boats and turned them over to the United States revenue cutter which towed them to Ship Island, where they are detained. Gov. Blanchard, in addition to notifying the federal government of the violation of Louisiana territory, has ordered a company of the naval reserve to impress a light draft boat, arm it with howitzers and proceed to the scene to prevent further aggressions.
Fever Gains in City.
The fever situation here took on a more serious phase Tuesday with the report of six deaths and new cases to nearly double the number of any previous day. While the health authorities make no explanation of the great increase in cases, it is believed possible that the ignorant Italians, losing their fear that the health officers mean harm to them, are reporting cases instead of keeping them hidden. Another serious development is that a number of the new foot are in the upper part of the city, one of the new cases being on Jackson street, in the residence district, the patient having recently returned from his summer home on the coast.
Isolated From the West.
The final step in closing up New Orleans against the West was taken, when Dr. Tabor of Texas announced that passengers from eastern and northern points having to pass through New Orleans could not continue their journey through Texas without remaining in a detention camp for at least six days. This practically puts an end to traffic on the Southern Pacific and the Texas and Pacific.
The action taken by the health authorities of both Mississippi and Texas in refusing to regard the health certificates granted by the United States marine service has caused that organization to practically give up the work of trying to carry on the detention camps. The Southern Pacific detention camp at Avondale has been discontinued and that on the Louisville and Nashville has been closed for several days, leaving but two.
London Bridge Traffic.
During the hours of full service there pass over Westminster bridge each hour an average number of 213 omnibuses, whilst over the Blackfriars bridge the number is 100 an hour. Neither of these comes near London bridge, which boasts of 332 busses an hour. Waterloo bridge has 150 an hour, Putney bridge 76, Vauxhall 60, Tower 42, Albert 38, Wandsworth 22, Chelsea 23 and Hammersmith 12.
Modern Hercules.
Louis de Bouffiers, surnamed "the Robust," who lived in 1534, was noted for his strength and agility. When he placed his feet together, one against the other, he could find no one able to disturb them. He could easily bend and break a horseshoe with his hands and could seize an ox by the tail and drag it against its will. He more than once carried a horse upon his shoulders.

ABOUT THIRTY- FIVE HUNDRED

IMMENSE CROWD AT THE CHAU-TAUQUA LAST EVENING.

FATHER VAUGHAN'S LECTURE

Great Actor-Priest Held Attention of Vast Assemblage with His Wonderful Powers.

(By Clarence Van Bynum.)
Gazette Headquarters, Chautauqua Grounds.—Fully three thousand five hundred people assembled in and around the auditorium tent at Mole's Grove last evening. It was the largest audience, other than that Sunday, which has yet visited the Chautaqua. The evening's entertainment was opened by a concert from the Chicago Lyceum Ladies' Quartette. Each selection the organization rendered elicited shouts of applause and encores were demanded.
The soloizing rendition of "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," by Mrs.
Ella Palmer pleased most wonderfully and her second piece was fully as delightful. The quartette is exceptionally well balanced and each voice shows extensive training and culture. The first soprano is Miss Lulu M. James, the second soprano
Miss Ethel Smith, the first alto Miss Eleanor Hobbs and the second alto,
Mrs. Ella M. Palmer. Mrs. Palmer also reads and her natural gifts as an impersonator and cleverness will make her pieces one of the enjoyable features of the concerts that the quartette will give.

Dr. McDermott Introduces.
At the close of the musical program
Dr. Grant presented Dr. McDermott of Baltimore, who in turn introduced Father Vaughan. Dr. McDermott is a professor of theology in the Kenrick Seminary at St. Louis and is not only a warm friend but a close acquaintance of the great actor-priest.
When Father Vaughan's name was mentioned the audience was so loud and continued that Dr. McDermott was unable to finish. The speaker said in part: Shakespeare is a liberal education, which is far more than figures, formula and facts, it is the lighting of the lamp by which we may look into the beautiful world of nature. Books are the guide of youth, the companion of man and the consolation of old age and the greatest of all is God's book of nature,
full of mysteries and beauties.
Shakespeare was a genius that was able to read and write nature, and his characters and conditions are not created, they are real. Shakespeare has pulled aside the curtain of life and shows God's men and women as they are. To read but from one author is to narrow one's life so that he sees only from the viewpoint of that writer but to read Shakespeare is to see the reflection of nature, for his works are the mirror of life.
Every joy and passion from the cradle to the grave is expressed in some book. It is this that makes his work so massive, so complete that it seems impossible that one mind should have conceived it all.

To Be Studied As Art.
Shakespeare's work is art and as such it should be studied. Science analyzes and pulls down while art builds up, and the works of this great author should be studied like a painting, from afar, and not by the technique. Shakespeare uses words simply as tools and vehicles to produce and carry the great religious ideas and it is not by the technique but by the thought that critics have believed, they could discriminate the real from the spurious writings. His productions are not mere poems ever written. His masterpieces have been judged by critics of technique as second rate plays. The tragedy of Julius Caesar, which has been considered the product of a diseased mind, was as interpreted by Father Vaughan a description of a world without a Divine God. In all its avarice and greed. In Henry VIII is found a companion picture to the great scene of pagan Rome.

Woman is the Lily.
The lily in this world of garden in the world is woman. Though she never occupies the center of the stage, but as a satellite revolves about the man, she is infinitely grander and more divine. Had Ophelia been three years older, a woman instead of a mere child, the tragedy of Hamlet would never have been for when Hamlet sought strength he would have found it in her love. Lady Macbeth was not ambitions for herself, she was made for her husband's sake. A woman can drag man to the very portals of hell but one purer can raise that same soul to the realm of heaven. The Merchant of Venice is not a comedy for its very structure and detail is that of a tragedy. This play is the greatest satire ever composed and drives home the sermon of brotherly love. The professed Christianity of Shakespeare's time made Shylock all the demon that he was.

Gems of Dramatic Art.
The lecture was illumined and set with the gems of Shakespeare and Father Vaughan's rendering of Anthony's oration over the dead body of great Caesar was revelation to many,
it put a new meaning upon the entire play. His reading of each portion was so without fault and so true to the characters that the audience held its breath at times to listen.

Moving Pictures.
A moving picture exhibition by Alfred Flude closed the evening program. Among the films thrown on the screen was the circus parade, high diving and photographing a fast train.

CHAUTAUQUA NOTES.

Before getting less than two hundred feet from the dock on the last trip to the city last evening the Steamer Columbia ran aground. It was loaded with passengers and before it could be shoved off the men were compelled to walk from the steamer to the shore, it being close enough to reach with a gang plank.
The boat was brought back to the pier and a fresh start taken.

Father Goebel is occupying one of the tents on the grounds.

Last night's crowd was so large that only about half of those who desired to take the street railway could be accommodated on the first trips of the four cars and the traffic did not cease on the Janesville line until near the midnight hour.

TOBACCO FIELDS LOOK BEAUTIFUL

Dry Weather, with Occasional Showers Has Proved a Great Benefit to the Weed.

There is no crop more beautiful to look upon than the tobacco field as it approaches the harvest. The writer of this column was especially impressed of this fact today after making a trip through the country. Although the dry weather proved to be of great benefit to the growing crop, yet from all sections now comes a cry for rain. While the pinching effects of the dry weather are not manifest to an alarming degree, if rain does not come within the next few days there is liable to be considerable damage, especially in the more advanced fields. A correspondent from the northern section says: "A drive through southern Vernon county reveals the fact that tobacco is of good color, clean and generally even. Some of it is not as far advanced as it should be at this season but nevertheless gives promise of developing a good crop should the weather be favorable. In the Kickapoo valley and northern Crawford, tobacco averages a better growth at present than the section of Vernon county referred to. The weather conditions the past week have been fine,

Work was recently commenced on the new $10,000 addition to the rear of the Court house. The flight of stone steps in the rear of the building have been cleared away and the one story addition with a basement is to be erected in their place with two of the windows in the main building converted into doors. The addition is necessary at this time to provide additional vault space for the county judge and clerk of court's records. Sufficient shelving will be installed to take care of all of the volumes likely to accumulate in the next ten or fifteen years and there will be sufficient room for at least twenty years' filings.

and with a continuation and good cultivation the 1905 crop promises to be a good one.

The shipments out of storage do not exceed 500 cases for the week past.

According to Pittsburgh dispatches
the sheet steel workers are asking

It was stated recently by an unemployed deputization that there are 4,

the enormous number of unemployed

VAN HISE MAKES DECIDED RULING

MEN EMPLOYED IN UNIVERSITY
CAN'T DRAW PAY ELSEWHERE.

IT HITS SOME INSTRUCTORS

And Will Eradicate What is Known as a Polite Graft System of Instructors.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis.—When a man accepts a position on the university faculty or staff of instruction, thereby going on the payroll of the state, he hypocrites himself to the service of the state; his time belongs to the state and he ought not to reach out after another salary the earning of which necessitates a division of the time for which he is already paid once by the state.
This is the policy announced recently by Dr. Charles R. Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin, and it is believed that he intends to extensively enforce it. It is understood that such a policy applied consistently to the administration of the university will reach and eradicate what has for some time been considered as a polite form of graft. It is common for members of the university faculty to employ considerable portions of their time to independent work aside or perhaps somewhat related to their work of instruction, to their own personal and private financial gain. They write books and do private tutoring, but it work outright or draw rich royalties

is not announced that President Van Hise desires to eliminate this practice. Others prepare text books on the order of school and publishing houses and are either paid for the Owen, instructor in school methods in the university school of music, and Professor Elias A. Bredin, instructor in piano forte and voice in the same department of the university. In the case of Professor Owen, the application of the new policy of President Van Hise was made so absolute as to extend to the cutting off of the pay for services already rendered to the board of education, pursuant to an agreement and contract almost a year old. At the last meeting of the board this matter came up again. President Van Hise had communicated to the board not under this agreement because the instructor was already paid one salary for his services to the state. The board believed, however, that as Professor Owen had worked for the board in good faith and had rendered satisfactory service, that he was entitled to his stipulated pay, and accordingly an appropriation at that time was made of $100 for Professor Owen, if not as salary for services

WEATHER FAVORABLE TO GROWING CROPS

Sugar Beets Much Improved by Recent Showers—Hay Harvest About Completed.

United States Department of Agriculture Crop Bulletin of Wisconsin for the week ending Monday, July 31.—The week as a whole has been a very favorable one, both for the advancement and maturity of crops and for farm work.
The early part of the week was quite cool, especially in the northern portions of the state, but no frost occurred and the growth of vegetation was not seriously checked. Fair weather with full sunshine prevailed until Friday, which furnished excellent conditions for completing haymaking and harvesting of wheat, rye and barley.

Rains were quite general over the state Friday, and very beneficial to corn, potatoes, tobacco, sugar beets and gardens.
The crop situation in this state at the end of July is very satisfactory.
Those crops that have already been secured are good, while growing crops are making excellent progress.

Winter Wheat and Rye: These crops are now secured and some threshing has been done. The yields are generally very good.

Spring Grains: Barley is mostly in sheaf in the central and southern counties and ready for harvesting elsewhere. The crop as a whole is good. Oats are ripening rapidly and some have been cut. There is generally a complaint of lodging and some complaint of rust. The bulk of the crop will be harvested during the coming week. Spring wheat and rye are satisfactory crops.

Corn: The showers during the latter part of the week were very beneficial to corn, and the crop is now generally in promising condition, especially on high, well-drained land.
On low land it has been too wet to allow proper cultivation and the fields are very weedy.

Potatoes: The season has been too wet for this crop, except on high, sandy soil, and the outlook is not as promising as could be wished for.
Some progress was made during the week, but as a whole the crop is somewhat late.

Hay: The harvesting of tame hay is about completed, and the crop is a very heavy one. Most of the hay cut during the early part of the month was somewhat damaged by rains, but that secured during the past two weeks was in fine condition.

Pastures were improved by the rains the last of the week and are now in fair condition.

Tobacco is making excellent progress and the outlook is very promising.

Minor Crops: Sugar beets were much improved by the recent showers. Buckwheat is generally satisfactory and gardens are doing well.

Fruit: Apples are generally satisfactory. The present condition of the cranberry crop is excellent. There is less blight than usual, and with the reservoirs well filled with water for protection against frost the outlook is very promising.

From Correspondents.
Evanston, Rock county: Having completed, and a heavy crop has been secured, in good condition; oat harvest now in progress; tobacco crop improved by rain Friday.—W. W.
Gillies.

favorable for cutting the grain crops;
barley all cut and some threshed;
oats being cut and a heavy crop;
corn and tobacco good.—F. Scham-ber.

Gay's Mills, Crawford county:
Fine week for crops and farm work;
much hay secured; corn and spring
wheat spotted; tobacco doing well;
oats fine.—J. L. Stowell.

Clinton, Rock county: Corn growing nicely; barley all in the shock;
late oats ready to cut; threshing under way; rain very beneficial to potatoes and pastures.—Robere Finster.

Janesville, Rock county: A fine week for harvesting and grain is nearly cut; threshing will be general the first of the week; a good rain on the 28th.—Robert Barless.

Rio, Columbia county: The latter half of the hay crop secured in good condition; barley harvest is about finished and threshing begun; some complaint of rust.—Jas. H. Hasey.

Tunnel City, Buffalo county: Barley mostly all cut and a very good crop; oats badly lodged and ripening slowly.—John Burt.

Boycott Spreads to Japan

Washington, Aug. 2.—A cablegram
from American Consul Harris at Na-

Americans and American products
now prevailing at Shanghai has extended to Nagasaki. This is the first intimation of the spread of the movement into Japan.

Undesirable Immigrants.

BUSINESS MEN WON BY A WIDE MARGIN

In Baseball Game with the Professionals Yesterday Afternoon—
Final Score 21 to 6.

In the baseball game played at Alhletic Park yesterday afternoon the Professional Men were decisively defeated by the gentlemen with no handles to their names. The final score was: Business Men, 21; Professional Men, 6. John Souleman agreed to act as umpire on condition that his person be declared inviolable no matter what might come to pass, and this was agreed upon. Herman Bugs and Warren Skelly constituted the formidable squadron of pitchers for the Business Men and Secretary J. C. Kline of the Y. M. C. A. officiated behind the bat. Tom Nolan relieved the latter a portion of the time. Atty. Will H. Dougherty was in the pitcher's box for the Professionals and Judge Earle and Rev. R.
M. Vaughan picked off the twisters behind the bat. Rev. Vaughan's high class work was a surprise to the fans and several of his star plays were roundly cheered by the appreciative multitude. The Professional men are hardly satisfied with their showing, believing that with a little more practice they can acquit themselves much more creditably, and another game will be scheduled in the near future.

Forty Years Ago.

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, August 2, 1865.—Deserters from the Draft.—Only about seventeen hundred deserters from the draft availed themselves of the pardon offered in the late President Lincoln's proclamation. Ten thousands of others still absent are liable to arrest wherever found in this country, and subject to punishment for the offense.

There is an Irishman in New York who pays tax on $14,175 of income who began business there as a boot-black seven years ago. He got rich by contracts with the city corporation.

From South Carolina.—A gentleman who has traveled extensively through the interior and western country of South Carolina since the close of the rebellion, says the conditions of the negroes is that section is worse than when they were in slavery. Their late masters not only compel them to labor without compensation, but treat them with cruelty. The whipping post is as much used as ever. Free men cannot leave their quarters without passes signed by the task masters. Under this harsh treatment the able-bodied portion of the colored people are leaving the plantations for the sea coast where they hope to be settled on the plantations. The women and children are left behind to the tender mercies of the slave drivers, who in many instances refuse to feed them. He describes the suffering among the aged and helpless negroes as very great, many of them being systematically starved to death in order to get rid of them. The slave owners are still as malignant and treacherous as they ever were, and speak of the emancipation proclamation and kindred acts, with contemptuous scorn.

State Fireman's Tournament.—The committee in charge of the fair grounds for the use of the Hook and Ladder and Hose companies for the running race, will have the track completed by Friday morning, and would invite all persons to drive their fast horses on the same.

John C. Spencer, Sec'y.

A Couple of Supposed Robbers Caught.—A couple of men named Henry Lee and W. H. McDougal have been arrested in Madison on the charge of robbing a returned soldier of the 17th regiment of $150. They have been bound over in the sum of $100 each of their appearance at the next terms of the Circuit court for Dan county.

Hospitalities to the Rebels.—The rebel generals released from Fort Warren were entertained on Monday evening by a sympathetic friend on Tremont street. Harry Gilmore was "sitting about" yesterday and carrying a very elevated cranium but not high enough to be beyond much public contempt of his character.

Conviction Follows Trial

When buying loose coffee or anything your grocer happens to have in his bin, how do you know what you are getting? Some queer stories about coffee that is sold in bulk, could be told, if the people who handle it (grocers), cared to speak out.

Could any amount of mere talk have persuaded millions of housekeepers to use

Lion Coffee,

the leader of all package coffees for over a quarter of a century, if they had not found it superior to all other brands in Purity, Strength, Flavor and Uniformity?

This popular success of LION COFFEE can be due only to inherent merit. There is no stronger proof of merit than continued and increasing popularity.

If the verdict of MILLIONS OF HOUSEKEEPERS does not convince you of the merits of LION COFFEE, it costs you but a trifle to buy a package. It is the easiest way to convince yourself, and to make you a PERMANENT PURCHASER.

LION COFFEE is sold only in 1 lb. sealed packages, and reaches you as pure and clean as when it left our factory.

ENGLISH POLITICS.

In the days of William of Orange the city of London was the Whig stronghold and was normally in opposition to the country gentlemen, who were sometimes Jacobite and always Tory. After the reform bill of 1832 the balance of representation in the English parliament was addressed so that the cities could afford to differ among themselves, says the Wall Street Journal. They accordingly did so with the result that the city of London, in respect to that ancient section of the greater metropolis which is bounded by the Griffin at one end and the Tower of London at the other has been consistently Tory for three-quarters of a century. The London Stock Exchange follows the politics of its environment. The entry of a new conservative government is a bull argument while it is in accordance with tradition to sell stocks when the liberals come into power.

Under the terms of the Septennial Act the present parliament must dissolve in October, 1906. In the present condition of politics in England it may dissolve before. The Balfour ministry has met with one or two serious reverses. The trend of the bye-elections has been uniformly against the government. Ministers retain offices largely by the permission of Mr. Chamberlain, who could force a dissolution at any time if it were a dissolution at any time if it were for preferential duties within the British Empire.

Mr. Balfour's desire to hold on to the office as long as possible may conceivably arise from the most patriotic and disinterested motives. It is possible that he is looking more at the very delicate condition of foreign affairs than at the difficulties arising out of administration at home. The Anglo-French entente probably still requires the friendly warmth of the incubator. The Anglo-Japanese treaty alliance expires next year. In the present condition of international relations its renewal as regarded as indispensable, and at least a section of conservative thought in England favors a still closer relation with the Island Empire of the North Pacific. British foreign policy is fairly consecutive in a muddled kind of way. It is likely to be only slightly changed with a new Liberal ministry especially as King Edward seems to be largely his own foreign secretary in fact, if not by any constitutional right.

A change seems inevitable and may come within the next three months. Apart from the disturbance to business, an English general election is estimated to cost annually $10,000,000. It is not improbable that a Liberal ministry with a majority exceeding the added numbers of home rulers and unionists may be in power before Christmas. The King may ask any statesman he pleases to form a cabinet. The new leader may be that colorless mediocrity, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman. Lord Rosebery would hardly command the confidence of the Liberal party, but Earl Spencer has claims and indeed could probably reconcile more conflicting elements than the present leader of the opposition in the House of Commons.

Comparisons between the two great parties here and those in England are generally fallacious, but there is one respect in which the Liberal party is strikingly like the Democratic party here. The Unionists, like the American Republican party, are for party purposes a unit. The Liberal party, since the leadership of the late Mr. Gladstone, is split up into all kinds of cliques and factions very much as our Democratic party has been since the second Cleveland presidency. One section of the English Liberals favors home rule, another believes in state ownership, a third would disestablish the church in Great Britain, a fourth considers local option more important than foreign relations, and for the last fifteen years all have united in a willingness to wreck the party if their own particular hobby were not run under government colors. The prospects are, in fact, for such a sweeping Liberal victory as that of 1880, and for a Liberal party so large that it will be able to enjoy the luxury of internal dissensions.

It is not that the Liberal party has not men of distinguished ability to form a government out of. Sir Charles Dilke would be a better foreign secretary than Lord Lansdowne and an infinitely better secretary for war than Mr. Brodick or Mr. Arnold Forster. Sir Edward Grey ranks high as an administrator, Earl Spencer is conciliatory and able. The Liberal party in the House of Lords enjoys a share of the brains there out of all proportion to its members. The trouble lies in the great stumbling block like home rule, on which many opinions have changed since Gladstone's day. Even with this out of the way there are certain radical reversals of policy in South Africa and elsewhere which could be insisted upon by a turbulent and independent following, but which no ministry could afford to concede in the form radicals of the Stead variety would demand.

Altogether the outlook at present is for disturbed political conditions in England for the next twelve months or more.

THE DESERT PLACES.

The Great American Desert has almost disappeared. In the geographies of the United States ten years ago this alleged desert was the most striking feature of the map. In the modern geography the eye misses it entirely.

A visitor back from a western trip, notes as the most striking item along the way the fact that where the Great American Desert was supposed to be there is now a stretch of one hundred miles of sand—no more—along the Central Pacific. Western Utah and eastern Nevada are dotted with country towns. Wagons carry many thousands of dollars' worth of merchandise into the one-time desert places year by year. The germs of mercantile and industrial life, planted by pioneers only five or ten years ago, have already sprouted and the life is slowly growing healthful, strong and virile. The projected route of the Western Pacific and the northern section of the San Pedro will lie across the alleged desert. Banks are springing up in the San Pedro towns. Nature, without much help from man, has wrought these things. Irrigation has played some part, but a small one, in this reclamation. The Northern Pacific "bad lands," areas of butte and gully, are this year smiling green pasture lands. Grazing is general across the miles that always were called "dead" in the traffic records of the past. The United States—and more especially the western railroads—appear to be making good their claim to a "pull with Providence."

AWAY FROM HOME.

The South Bend, Indiana Tribune, a newspaper that carries at the head of its editorial column the caption, "A paper for the people," has the following little terse remark regarding our speechmaking, spell-binding Governor that may not be pleasing to his friends to read. Usually the newspaper clippings given prominence in the Wisconsin press are complimentary to him, but the Tribune, "a paper for the people" says: Gov. La Follette, of Wisconsin, wants to hang President Fish, of the Illinois Central Railroad, and no doubt there are many railroad officials in the country who would like to take hand in hanging La Follette, who is considered about the most vicious enemy the railroad interests of the country have at the present time.

Beloit sneers at Janesville because the census figures were not given out earlier. Then it plumes itself upon its twelve thousand and places South Beloit along side with seven hundred. You are a good second little line City but you must grow faster than you have before you can claim stellar honors, and talk is cheap.

Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery and when a county weekly paper copies items or persons from the country towns without giving credit, we know the Gazette is read and appreciated. There is nothing like a paste pot and shears to edit a one-horse paper anyway.

Chicago merchants have awakened to the fact that the recent strikes have done that city a great injury and are now doing all they can to keep the public from knowing just how bad the city really is.

Poor LaCrosse. Its Official count was not as large as it should have been. Oshkosh sits back and laughs. Never mind Miss La Crosse, don't cry, Oshkosh has one less population than it had. "Dr." Hicks is going to move away.

Milwaukee does turn out some queer freak every once in a while. First came the band sensation, then came the grand jury and its indictments, now comes a minister who has no church, turning bigwig.

Janesville people are beginning to appreciate that the Chautauqua is all right after all.

Boom Janesville all you can. The old town can stand a big boom after years of inactivity.

Collins means to clean out Chicago if it takes all summer.

PRESS COMMENT.

Milwaukee Sentinel: But there are names of former democratic war horses that did not appear in the list of Bryan banquet guests at Madison.

American Cultivator: All hail the active little fly that makes the wicked moth to die! May good digestion's sweet delight attend his funny appetite.

Oshkosh Northwestern: No matter what the population of the city may be, it is a settled fact there are too many dogs in Oshkosh in proportion to the census of persons.

Wauwacsa Record: An effort is being made to again make earnings fashionable. Our women of today are too far removed from primitive days to tolerate anything so barbarous.

New Orleans Picayune: Only a man who has married an intellectual woman can appreciate the monotony of having brains for breakfast 365 days in the year.

Fargo Forum: A small boy at Hannah tried to slide down a rope from the top of an elevator. He fell most of the way and the doctors are endeavoring to keep him on the map.

Sheboygan Journal: One alleged Milwaukee grafter is suing another for damages. Even grafters have feelings, it appears.

Duluth Labor World: The man who prays with his face toward heaven and votes with his face toward hell will likely land in the latter place.

El Paso Herald: Miss Ellen Stone wants Philadelphia to "pray for the benighted east" and Philadelphians who have been west are wondering if she means anything personal.

Madison Journal: Away up in Merrill they are making a great furor about the boys bathing in the river near the intake for the city water. Down here in Wauwacsa we would not mind a little thing like that so long as the boys bathe.

Evening Wisconsin: Cracks in the ground near Calumet, Michigan, made by the earthquake, are not as damaging as some of the holes in the ground that were made in Northern Michigan during the Gobiic promotion of mispragmatic memory.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Many a woman who is perfectly shocked at the sight of a chorus girl's legs will go about in hot weather with her arms bare to the shoulders and a nice little patch of epidermis showing down between her shoulder blades.

Exchange: Senator Beveridge is writing a series of magazine articles of which advice to young men is the most prominent feature. It is hoped the sage of 43 years will live to complete them.

Superior Telegram: Statistics have just shown that only seventeen regular army officers of the country have been drunk in a period of fifteen years. We used to have a great deal of confidence in the accuracy of statistics.

La Fayette Journal: More than 4,000 lives have been lost and $100,000,000 spent so far in search for the North Pole. The lives never can be recovered, and unless the land around the pole can be sold for at least $1.25 when discovered, the money will be a total loss, or nearly so.

Wauwacsa Post: This effort on the bicycle trust to revive interest in bicycling has not met with the success anticipated. People have learned by sad experiences that riding a bicycle on the average country road in America is about as much fun as getting a free ride on a canal boat in return for leading the mules.

Milwaukee News: It's a lucky thing for Sayvessant Fish that he isn't within Gov. La Follette's jurisdiction or he would some to realize that a corporation can't make the governor of Wisconsin stand up when he wants to sit down and escape with his life. The tribune of the people is not to be trifled with—not, at least, with impunity.

El Paso Herald: There is no doubt that we are a powerful nation as well as the most obnoxious one that ever came down the pike, but Korea pushes a little hard in asking us to guarantee her independence against Japan. Unfortunately as it no doubt seems to her, she is part of the spoils of the victor, and nobody just now is yearning to bell the Jap cat.

Racine Times: The education bureau connected with the department of the interior is sending out a publication entitled "Educational Benefactors," in which John D. Rockefeller is particularly mentioned, and his career traced from the cradle to the present time, with gentle handling at great variance with the coal oil coloring in the picture presented by Miss Tarbell. The work is being sent to every school and library. In the sketch regarding John D. there is not a single word that could in any way impugn the motives of the Standard Oil King. This will be a source of satisfaction to the worried, unhappy man of millions.

Milwaukee Free Press: The Rev. Mr. Schlect of Chicago appealed to Gov. Deneen in behalf of the unspeakable Hoch, the "bluebeard" wife murdered for an extension of the reprieve. But as Hoch was tried and convicted on the charge of killing but one of his many wives, and as there is a possibility that the supreme court will find some loopholes large enough in the trial proceedings to let Hoch through, this Chicago clergyman importunes the governor to grant a fresh reprieve. Later he will probably join the other ministers in hammering his desk and denouncing the lawlessness of the times and the laxity of the courts in the enforcement of the law for the suppression of boxing matches, Sunday saloon openings, and cigarette smoking.

La Crosse Leader-Press: Johann Hoch, the coarse criminal and murderer of many wives, has gained a brief lease of life because he has found another silly woman as anxious to be victimized as were the unfortunate ones who sacrificed their lives to this modern Bluebeard.

might have their small earnings. The facts left no doubt of Hoch's guilt. Capital punishment is wrong, a relic of the barbaric ages and it ought not to be tolerated in a civilized country, but while it remains in force there is no good reason for making an exception of the men whose existence is almost the only argument for the killing of murderers. An appeal to the supreme court for which the fellow's latest admirer has provided the means, cannot save Hoch. He can give him a few months longer to live. At the end of the brief respite which the woman's money will provide, no one doubts that the sentence of the court will be carried out just as it would have been yesterday had there been no interference.

New London Republican. Governor La Follette told Indians that he had not yet made up his mind whether or not to accept the senate seat to which he has been selected. Surely, he has had plenty of time. Possibly his Stalwart friends (?) might give him material assistance in making up his mind. They've helped him heretofore and might give aid again. Just make plain to him what you want, Brother Stalwarts, and he will do the other thing.

El Paso Herald: One of these days Germany will drift peacefully into a republic or a limited monarchy of the English type, where the head of the system is admonished that his duty is to be beautiful and not talk. Incidents like this war flurry with France are expensive and unpleasant, but inevitable when too much irresponsibility is lodged in the hands of one hereditary monarch.

Menasha Record: The charges against the city clerk of La Crosse that he drew $700 for clerk hire and paid out only $600, pocketing the other $100, reminds one of the Milwaukee county officials, years ago, who took twenty-five children to the Spauldine home at one trip and collected twenty-five expenses for it. The graft is an old one and neither Madison nor congress is free from it.

Milwaukee Sentinel: It is generally conceded that W. J. Bryan can have the nomination of his party in 1908 if he wants it. No other member of his or any other party ever emerged from obscurity so suddenly, vaulted to so high a place in the party councils, and kept his position as the acknowledged leader so long as William Jennings Bryan. If he does nothing more he will have achieved a unique place in history.

Fond du Lac Reporter: "It may not be good theology; it may not be good ethics but it is certainly very good common sense and a very good moral element that the fear, the dread of exposure in the public press keeps many a man sticking close to the path of rectitude who otherwise would stray off into the byways of personal graft." The foregoing is a quoted from an address made recently by Cardinal Gibbons. It is no news to the men in the editorial room, but comparatively few people outside the newspaper profession realize what a powerful deterrent power is exercised by the press.

Evening Wisconsin: In the controversy between City Clerk Hinkel and City Directory Publisher Wright as to the number of inhabitants in Milwaukee, the confidence of the majority is likely to be reposed with Mr. Wright. According to his computation, based upon the increase of names in the City Directory, Milwaukee has gained in the neighborhood of 57,500 inhabitants since the taking of the federal census five years ago. Mr. Wright is an expert on population statistics, and supports his conclusions by analogies which make a strong showing. If he is correct the number of people in Milwaukee is not far from $42,000.

The city clerk's declaration is that the population of Milwaukee does not exceed 325,000.

Milwaukee Journal: The State, published at Madison and understood to be the personal organ of the La Follette leaders housed in the state capital, makes this significant statement: "Hon. W. J. Bryan is strong or today than at any time in the past, and all signs point to his nomination in 1908. If the Wall street trust magnates should control the next Republican national convention Mr. Bryan will be the next president of the United States. Party, does mean less today than at any time in a half century. The next great battle will be fought to redeem our government from the grasp of plutocracy and if the Republican party does not furnish a leader who will lead in this contest for government by and for the people, the Democratic party will in the person of William Jennings Bryan."

New York Tribune: "The Boston Herald" thinks it has traced the origin of "O. K." and it does not spring from an easy spelling of "all correct." According to "The Herald" it is Choctaw. There is in that language a word, "Okah," which means "it is correct" or "I agree or approve." It is often used alone to give assent or approval to a suggestion or proposal. "Okah" was in common use among whites who had dealings with the Choctaws more than thirty years before the Van-Buren campaign. It was a convenient expression where parties understood each other's language imperfectly, and was used to mean, "I understand you and approve of what you say," or "I understand your statement and vote for its correctness."

La Crosse Tribune: Dr. Marquardt dropped into a place where there were others. Lawyer "Billy" Wolfe smiled at him, and then everyone smiled with him. "Do you know Mr. Wolfe," said the good doctor, "that every time I see you I am reminded of what my boy said to me in the graveyard. You see we found a small monument on which was written: 'Here lies Lawyer Bill Jones, An honest man.' " said my son, 'there must be two men in the grave.' "

As the old verse says, "Bareh parasthen, us in duty bound, the joke applauded, and the laugh went round." Billy smiled, too. "I used to think that was a good story," he said, "but it isn't any better than a less ancient one that dear old Judge Sloan used to spring on us in law college a little more than twenty years ago. The judge would look so very at us over his glasses and say, 'Do sure you're right before you go into court, young men; you can't bury your mistakes, like the doctors can.' " "There comes" my car," said the doctor.

American Regard for Dewey.

Madison Journal: There is something brutal in the way in which many Americans seek to trample Channcey M. Dewey under foot. For forty years the genial Peckskill man has given of his best to his fellow-countrymen; his talents and arts were at the disposal of all who wished them; he seemed to find his pleasure in giving pleasure to others. As an example of optimism no man has been more useful. Now that some charges that he "did as the Romans did" are filed, there is a demoralized gleam in certain quarters that would be unseemly on the exposure of a demonstrated life-long rascal. What the fact may be as to Dr. Dewey's actions and the Equitable will be better understood when the man has had his say. It is not unlikely that the infatuation which seems to have characterized all the doings of young Mr. Hyde's society may have included the influential railroad president, financier and counselor. For all of those Dr. Dewey has been. If a bad loan was made by the insurance company on a property in which Dewey was interested, here may be blame. But whatever the showing (and Dr. Dewey must be heard before all is known) it is most ungracious in the American people whose servant he was and whom he has made a delighted and inspired audience for many years on all wholesome and useful topics; always without malice or harm to any man; it is ungracious we say, to discredit such a man at the age of 73 in any spirit save regret—and this may be wasted.

ON AMBITION.

The ambitious plodder's wife hopes to take in less washing and more holidays.

The ambitious man in moderate circumstances possesses a lawn mower and a well-groomed bunch of holly hocks.

His front gate swings on hinges and the bootblack watches for him at the corner.

His ambitious wife aspires to membership in the class that keeps its solid silver in vaults downtown and uses plated ware and chipped china at home.

Her children know not the joy of mud pies nor her husband that of a late breakfast.

She lives on her nerve and nothing short of appendicitis or housecleaning prevents her from attending clubs, instituting reforms and wearing sleeves of the proper shape.

A man without ambition is like a headless cabbage stalk, neither useful nor ornamental.

His back yard runs to dock and his children to the dogs.

The opening of his front door lets out a cloud of dust and his womankind fan themselves with their aprons.

The lean streaks in his horse predominate over the fat and even his hens lay stale eggs.

The woman without ambition allows her neighbor to wear sealskins and her children to wear rags, while her husband breakfasts on yesterday's pancakes.

VAUGHAN AGAIN ATTRACTS MANY

LECTURED ON "THE LAND OF POSSIBILITIES".

TAKEN ILL DURING TALK

Herbe "Wrinkles" This Evening—
Ash Davis Tomorrow.

(By Clarence Van Bynum.)
Gazette Headquarters, Chautauqua Grounds.—The name of Herbert Leon Cope on the program for tonight assures a large audience. He will lecture on "Wrinkles." The entertainment will commence at half past seven with a concert by the Chicago Lyceum Ladies' Quartette and close with moving pictures at quarter of ten.

Tomorrow's Program.
Amusement of the brightest class will be furnished both afternoon and evening tomorrow. Three concerts will be given by the Ladies' Quartette, Ash Davis, the noted clay modeller and entertainer, will hold the boards in the afternoon and Herbert Leon Cope will at night give his first lecture here.

The subject upon which he will speak is "The Religion of Laughter." The morning session of the world's development will be continued under the direction of Dr. Grant. He will show how the flora made the sun and not the sun the flowers. The program is:
10:00—Lecture, "The Earth and Old Age," Dr. Roland Dwight Grant.

11:15—Round Table, Dr. Roland Dwight Grant.

2:00—The Chicago Lyceum Ladies' Quartette.

2:30—Cartoonist, Clay Modeller and Entertainer, Ash Davis.

4:15—The Chicago Lyceum Ladies' Quartette.

Mrs. Effie Palmer, Reader.

7:30—The Chicago Lyceum Ladies' Quartette.

Mrs. Effie Palmer, Reader.

8:45—Lecture, "The Religion of Laughter," Herbert L. Cope.

9:45—Moving Pictures, Alfred L. Flude.

Father Vaughan Speaks.
At request Father Vaughan changed the topic of his address given this afternoon. Instead of speaking on "Julius Caesar," he lectured on "The Land of Possibilities," reviewing American history. From one o'clock until three every car and each boat was crowded and at least fifteen hundred people listened to the program. The session opened at two with a concert by the Ladies' Quartette which was received with much pleasure. At quarter after four another program by the same organization was rendered.

Taken Ill.
When in the middle of his address Father Vaughan was unable to finish and Father McDermott of Baltimore continued the address along the same lines. Father Vaughan is in poor health and has been ill all night and should not have gone to the grounds. His illness is not dangerous.

Atomic Germ Theory.
By far the most interesting morning lecture yet given was delivered by Dr. Grant today and against the introduction of life into the world he propounded the atomic germ theory. Continuing with the subject of crystallography he showed that water and gases were imprisoned in these gases. By the forces this globe of crystal formation was later ground up and crushed, forming the valleys. God then impregnated the land with germinal atoms, not seed, which are indestructible and from these grew plant-life. These germinal atoms were distributed throughout the world and flora sprung up. Dr. Grant spoke at length on the Bible sentence which he says totally annihilates the evolution doctrine. The sentence referred to is: Each plant shall bring forth seed in itself after its own kind. On numerous points touched there were some heated discussions, many of Dr. Grant's theories being opposite to those of accepted science. Dr. Grant has been asked to deliver the lecture, "Was Your Father a Monkey?" and he will comply with the request.

ASSEMBLY SIDE LIGHTS.
Woman (gossiping)—O, she has the most beautiful skin you ever saw. Herbert Leon Cope (overhearing conversation)—I've been beautifully skinned myself.

Alfred L. Flude who is furnishing the moving picture exhibitions says that the audiences here are the largest he has ever known at the first year sessions of a Chautauqua.

A check room where umbrellas, wraps and lunch baskets could be taken care of for a small sum would not be entirely out of place. Many campers are imposed upon by visitors being asked to take care of numerous articles, in many cases to their discomfort.

Last evening every chair available for renting purposes had been secured long before Father Vaughan opened his lecture.

A number of lost articles have already been restored to their owners through announcements from the platform.

STOLEN PANAMA HATS RECOVERED BY POLICE

St. Paul Ry. May Consent Not to Prosecute Boys Who Robbed Passengers Through Car Windows.

On Tuesday evening, July 25, several Rockford and Freeport passengers aboard a St. Paul excursion train which stopped in Janesville on its return from the Del's had their hats snatched through the car windows by some loiterers around the local depot. Included in the headgear taken were several valuable panama hats. The police have been quietly working on the trail of the offenders for several days past and have run down three boys who committed the depredations and recovered three panama hats and one black fedora. The young men belong to good families and if it develops that all the stolen property has been recovered the railroad officials may consent not to prosecute.

Hence Modern "Vaudeville."

"Vaudeville" is a corruption of "Val de Vire," or, in old French, "Val de Vire," the native valley of Oliver Basselin (fifteenth century), a Norman poet, the founder of a certain class of convivial songs, which he called after the name of his own valley. These songs are the basis of modern "vaudeville."

Hardly Too Much to Ask.

Of the Duc d'Anjou this story is told: "His father was the most original and the most slovenly man in France. Once when looking at himself in a mirror he said: 'D'Anjou, God made you a gentleman; the king made you a duke. You might do something in your turn—at least, you might go and shave!'"

TO BLOW UP DAM AT INDIAN FORD

EVIDENCE OF DASTARDLY PLAN COMES TO LIGHT.

100 POUNDS OF DYNAMITE

Fastened to Gate—Stem Discovered by Accident Last Evening—Fuss Had Failed to Work.

At four o'clock yesterday afternoon some boys playing around the Indian Ford dam came upon a fuse and reported their discovery to C. S. Thomas, who is in charge of the power plant there. The latter at once made an investigation and found 100 pounds of dynamite in two boxes containing fifty pounds of dynamite in each, fastened to the gate-stem of the west gate. Subsequent researches convinced Mr. Thomas that the charge, which was obviously intended to blow up the dam, had been there about a week. No clue to the guilty parties has been discovered.

People Are Astounded.

That such a diabolical plan for the destruction of property and lives could be conceived and its execution undertaken in Rock county is almost beyond credence. The owners of the lowlands in that vicinity have of course been exasperated this season by the unusual high water which has defrauded them of the pastures and crops of grass on meadowed land which they had enjoyed during the long period of low water extending from 1881 to 1902. It would naturally be beneficial to them if there was no dam there whatever, or indeed no lake. The mill-owners, proprietors of high land, hunters, and hotel keepers, on the other hand want the water kept at a reasonable stage. Since March 8, 1898, a year of low water, the gates have been kept closed by a judgment issued by the court. It is learned also that the dam has not been raised nor have there been any flush-booms in use for more than twenty years.

Petitioned Attorney General.

At Madison the attorney general has been petitioned to bring a suit in the name of the state to annul the franchise and compel the removal of this dam. The matter is to be taken up within the next few weeks. In the meantime, it seems, certain lawless parties have decided to take the case into their own hands. The owner of the property does not recollect the heavy rainfall and resultant floods this spring which have made the lake unusually high furnish any just reason for abandoning a water power which supplies the lighting plant, elevators, feed mills, and printing shops at Edgerton. Even were the dam destroyed in the manner attempted it would be rebuilt, unless the law interfered, and no good to anyone would have resulted.

CORN DOING WELL

SPRING WHEAT BEING HOUSED

No Rust Damage Has Been Reported, Except in Scattered Districts of South Dakota—Cotton Improves—
Tobacco Is Backward.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Crop conditions are summarized as follows in the weekly bulletin issued by the weather bureau:

"During the week ended July 31 the Ohio valley and northern portions of the middle Atlantic states and New England experienced temperatures too low for best results, but elsewhere the temperature conditions were favorable.
Rains interfered with farm work in the Missouri valley, northern Texas and in portions of the lower Ohio valley and east Gulf coast districts, while rain is needed in Georgia, portions of Florida, northern Mississippi, northern Illinois, Ohio and northern New Jersey.

"In the Ohio valley the growth of corn has been somewhat checked by cool weather but elsewhere in the principal corn states this crop has made excellent progress. Throughout the Atlantic coast districts a fine crop is indicated. In Tennessee, Arkansas, Indian territory and northern Texas the condition of corn is not so promising.

Winter and Spring Wheat.
"Threshing of winter wheat has been interrupted by wet weather in southern Illinois and portions of the Missouri valley and middle Atlantic states, but elsewhere this work has advanced satisfactorily. Winter wheat harvest is finished, except a small part of the crop in Michigan and New York.

"Spring wheat harvest is in progress in Nebraska, Iowa and the southern portions of South Dakota and Minnesota. This crop has made favorable progress, no rust damage being reported, except from scattered fields in South Dakota, where smut and blight are also prevalent to some extent.
Late spring wheat was materially damaged in Washington by hot winds of the preceding week, but the early crop escaped injury. Harvest is general in Oregon, with about the average yield and quality.

"Oats harvest has progressed favorably and is now becoming general in the more northerly states. With the exception of some damage to harvested oats in Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and Virginia, the reports respecting this crop are highly favorable.

Cotton Shows Improvement.
"Some improvements in the condition of cotton over most of Texas is indicated, and, while too rank growth and unsatisfactory fruiting are reported from Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi, a general but slight improvement is also shown in these states. In Alabama the crop has generally deteriorated; in Georgia it is fruiting rapidly, where sufficient rains have occurred, but in other localities of that state rain is badly needed, and shedding, rust and black root are prevalent. Rank growth and shedding are also reported from Tennessee, the Carolinas and Florida, in which states no improvement is indicated, except on clay lands in South Carolina, while on sandy lands in that state the crop has deteriorated.

Tobacco Is Backward.
"In Maryland and Virginia tobacco is not doing well, although some improvement is reported from the latter state. An improvement is also reported from Kentucky, where, however, the crop is in need of cultivation, and has suffered from rain and hail in the northern portion. In the other tobacco states the outlook is favorable.

"With but few exceptions the reports indicate a very light crop of apples.

"Haying has been retarded in portions of Iowa, North Dakota and Virginia, but reports generally indicate that a good crop of hay has been largely secured."

CATARRH

A UNIVERSAL DISEASE

Catarrh usually begins with a cold in the head, but does not stop there. The mucous membranes all become inflamed and secrete a filthy, unhealthy matter which is absorbed by the blood and distributed to all parts of the body. The patient is then continually hawking and spitting, the nose is stopped up,
the ears have a ringing or buzzing noise,
the throat becomes sore, and as the unhealthy matter more thoroughly saturates the blood a general feeling of despondency takes possession of the system.

I had Catarrh for about fifteen years, and no one could have been worse. I tried everything I could hear of, but no good resulted. I then began S. S. S., and could see a little improvement from the first bottle, and after taking it a short while was cured. This was six years ago, and I am as well today as any man. I think Catarrh is a blood disease, and know there is nothing on earth better for the blood than S. S. S. Nobody thinks more of S. S. S. than I do.
Lapeer, Mich. M. MATSON.

Local applications cannot cure Catarrh, because they do not reach the seat of the trouble. They allay the inflammation and temporarily relieve the disease, but as soon as they are left off the trouble returns. The only way to cure Catarrh is to treat it through the blood. S. S. S. soon clears the blood of all Catarrh matter and purges it of all irritating poisons, checks further progress of the trouble and completely cures the disease.

S. S. S. keeps the blood in perfect order so that it can eliminate all waste matter that will produce Catarrh. Nothing equals this great vegetable remedy in the cure of this disease. Write for our book and any medical advice you wish. We make no charge for either.

BRIDGEWORKERS ARE TO STRIKE

More Than 50,000 Men to Be Involved Against American Company.

New York, Aug. 2.—There will be,
in all probability, a national strike against the American Bridge Company. Should the strike be called more than 50,000 men will be involved. It will be one of the greatest struggles between labor and capital.
The workers say that the American Bridge Company is responsible for the coming trouble. Although the company has a contract to employ only union men, the workers say they have made a contract with the Boston Bridge Company, which employs non-union men. Frank Buchanan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, arrived in the city and will make his headquarters here during the controversy.

mother to the county jail, where the latter awaits admission to the asylum.
The woman is suffering from hallu-

Little hope is held out for her recovery, but every effort is being made to have the baby admitted to the as-

SUBSTITUTES FOR MILK.

One of my lectures upon the subject of infant feeding gave careful instructions for the preparation of artificial feeding by substituting cow's milk for human milk. It was found necessary to close, however, just in the midst of a very important portion of the process—the care of the milk. I will, therefore, finish the description before starting the lesson on substitutions for milk.

The majority of housekeepers, even very young ones, are aware of the fact that it is very unwise to leave milk uncovered, or to put it in vessels of any kind that have not previously been scalded. Great care in this regard is absolutely necessary, as in the first place there are very few substances that will more quickly absorb noxious odors, and impurities of all kinds, than milk, if it is left uncovered; and, in the second place, the very thing which is most desired to avoid may be contained in the unscalded milk bottle.

Another important consideration is the nipple and tube through which the baby sucks the milk from the bottle. I do not approve of the long rubber tubes, and especially those that are attached to the mouthpiece. The nipple should be thoroughly cleaned every time the bottle becomes empty. And right here it might be well to say that a fresh supply of milk should never be put in the bottle until that which is in it is used up or disposed of in some way. The best and, in fact, the only way is to keep two bottles. As soon as one has been used, it should be scalded and be placed in an earthen dish containing a solution of common soda and water. It should be left in this until needed. Such a procedure insures perfect cleanliness. Milk should never be "warmed up" and offered a second time to the child, but a fresh supply prepared for each feeding.

The nipple should not be placed in the solution, as it would injure the rubber; it should always be cleaned by hand. The rubber nipple has been so long used, and saves so much time, that it will not soon be discarded, even though it is somewhat unhygienic; but really the best and most sanitary method is to feed the baby with a spoon from the first. It will readily learn to take its milk from a spoon, and in a very few months will drink from a cup or glass.

In considering all of these details and giving the instructions for artificial feeding I do not wish to be understood at any time as being in favor of it, if it is within the range of possibilities for the precious bit of humanity to be nursed by its own mother.

There is to me no grander or more solemnly sacred sight than a mother nursing her babe, or, as a tender-hearted woman once expressed it in my hearing: "I cannot conceive of a heaven that could contain greater or more inexpressible bliss than to nurse one of my own babies." I would to God that this was the sentiment of every woman in America to-day, and such I believe to be the earnest and heartfelt wish of every honest physician.

But every day, year after year, must the physicians hear the most trivial excuses given by thoughtless—I almost said heartless—mothers for not nursing their own babies. Therefore, it becomes necessary, not only for the sake of the helpless, deserted little ones, but for the sake of those who are orphaned or through some other unavoidable misfortune must be artificially fed.

I have now given the best known methods of artificial feeding with milk, and I will give to you the result of thousands of experiments in the feeding with substitutes for milk.

It should be understood from the start that many mistakes have been made and many an infant allowed to die because it was not at first known that the saliva of the infant does not have the same action upon starchy foods that it afterwards acquires, and that it cannot digest nor assimilate starch, which is another reason why the babies fed upon many of the artificially prepared foods suffer from intestinal derangements and easily sicken and die.

Such foods are usually found, when chemically examined, to have too little gluten and too much starch. Another trouble with them, and in fact with all artificial foods for infants, is that, in order to get the best results, they must be warmed to at least 99 degrees Fahrenheit. But in giving the milk heretofore referred to this is not, perhaps, so imperative as in the case of other food preparation.

There are cases in which the prepared milk temporarily disagrees. It then becomes necessary to prepare a substitute. A very good one can be made by the following recipe: Veal broth (one-half pound of meat to the pint), one and one-half ounces; barley water, one and one-half ounces; sugar of milk, one-half drachm. Either of these formulae is recommended by the great specialist, Dr. Starr, and is perfectly rational.

Although, as a rule, I object to any beef or meat extract, especially for children, yet there are times when raw beef juice, given in teaspoonful doses every two hours, will be retained when everything else fails. But even this is improved by the addition of barley water, particularly when there is looseness of the bowels.

Some mothers gladly nurse their babies, but for some cause unknown to them, or from lack of nourishment, are unable to supply sufficient nutriment. It is then wise to resort to what is called "mixed feeding."

that is, the bottle may be given part of the time. When the mother is tired and suffering for want of sleep the child will be better off if hand fed than to take the milk from the weary mother. A hungry and poorly nourished baby will cry almost incessantly, and is peevish and fretful, generally takes the breast eagerly, and either nurses too long or stops too soon if it does not get milk readily; the sleep is uneasy and irregular, the abdomen tender and sometimes distended with gas. As a rule, there will also be vomiting, and the stools are very offensive; milk curds will be found therein if close examination is made.

Such are the cases in which it is wise to supply prepared milk most of the time for two or three days, until the mother's milk is found to agree with them better, when a return to the former methods, may be made, and premature weaning avoided.

Such babies are much more easily weaned when the proper time comes than are those which have never been hand fed. The next lecture will be upon the subject of weaning.

CLUB NOTES.

Iowa.—Dr. David H. Reeder, LaPorte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: I am a member of the Home Health Club and have enjoyed your lectures very much. My family now drink hot water entirely; have few headaches and enjoy better health generally since dispensing with tea and coffee. We have used the hot blanket for colds and face aches and it worked like magic.

I would say that if a person who complained of dizziness when taking hot or steam baths would put a cloth wrung out of cold water upon the head it would relieve the faintness at once. Yours very truly, Mrs. W. S.

I am glad to learn that the Home Health Club has been of value to you, and I sincerely trust that you will receive as much or more benefit from it in the future. I thank you for your suggestion regarding the cold cloth to the forehead for overcoming dizziness, when taking a cabinet bath, and I heartily endorse it.

Salina.—Dr. David H. Reeder, LaPorte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: Will you kindly state, through the columns of the Home Health Club, the proper treatment for a case showing the following symptoms. The lady is my daughter, a farmer's wife in Massachusetts. She writes: "My left hand keeps going to sleep. It gets numb and prickles, and then sharp, shooting pains go through the arm and into the fingers. My hand is stiff, and has to be rubbed briskly before I can use it. For two years I have dreaded to make button-holes or do darning, because of my hand." Yours, cordially, J. C.

Have your daughter foment her entire arm and hand thoroughly every night. Then follow by a good rubbing with pure olive oil. Each morning upon arising massage the entire arm and hand for at least five minutes. There need be no particular movements used in this massage—just work the flesh smartly with the other hand; stretch the fingers, roll them, pinch them; stir new life into them. A mechanical massage roller would be of great value, however.

I presume you know what a fomentation is; but, for fear you don't, I will describe how to apply one to your daughter's arm. Simply wring a woolen blanket out of boiling water, and wrap this hot mass around the hand and arm. It is better to rub well with oil first, so as to avoid burning. Be careful, when removing, that the arm does not become chilled, or harm will result.

Knoxville.—Dr. David H. Reeder, LaPorte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: Will you please give me the cause and cure of what is called water brash? And oblige a constant reader. H. W. Pl.

Waterbrash is about the same thing as what is more commonly termed heartburn. There is something the matter with the digestion, and this must be corrected before the trouble can be overcome. For temporary relief try a teaspoonful of lime water (buy this of your druggist) mixed with about the same quantity of witch hazel, taken in a glass of milk. Then follow the Home Health Club methods for curing indigestion and you will be well.

All readers of this paper are at liberty to write for any information pertaining to the subject of health. All communications should be addressed to Dr. David H. Reeder, LaPorte, Ind., and must contain name and address in full and at least four cents in postage.

Burn the Fringe.

There is a better way to make one's frayed cuffs presentable than to pare them with the scissors. Says a writer: "With the first touch of steel the cuff is ruined. Light a match and pass it round the frayed edge (do not burn your wrist). The cleansing fire will remove the dross and leave intact the pure gloss of the cuff. A cuff treated with fire will last laundry generations longer than the cuff treated with steel."

Model Milestone.

Just outside the fine old parish church of St. George's, Beckenham, Kent, stands a high milestone, which is unique in the respect that it not only instructs the public as to the distance to the neighboring districts, but also gives information as to the roads to take to reach the places in the vicinity.

How Cameos Are Formed.

Cameos are gems formed from precious stones, having two distinct layers of strata of different colors. The darker stratum is left to form a background, the object to be represented being left in relief by cutting away the surrounding parts. The onyx is generally used for this purpose.

BARKING DOGS CAUSE DEATH OF YOUNG WOMAN

Shock to Nervous System So Great Her Exhausted Vitality Fails to Ward Off Collapse.

New York, Aug. 2.—Miss Lizzie Schults of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., was literally frightened to death. The barking of two dogs of which she had been fearful so shocked her nervous system that she went into collapse, became unconscious and died in a few hours. Miss Schults was nineteen years old.

With Mrs. John T. Bulmer, a neighbor, at 9 o'clock at night she went to see Dr. Conover. As they passed William Hess' house two dogs fiercely barked at them. They could not see the dogs in the darkness, and that they were invisible seemed to add to Miss Lizzie's terror.

"Oh, there are those dogs again!" she gasped, seizing Mrs. Bulmer. "Whenever I pass here they jump at me. They frighten me dreadfully."

Shaking with fear, she clung to Mrs. Bulmer, who tried to reassure her and led her toward the physician's house. When they arrived there Miss Schults had partly recovered her composure, but feeling faint she hesitated to ascend the front stoop.

As Dr. Conover saw her pale and trembling hands he exclaimed: "Why, what's the matter?"

"Oh, nothing, doctor. I feel better," she answered. Mrs. Bulmer told Dr. Conover how the dogs had frightened the girl. He gave her a stimulant and soon she went home.

No sooner had she reached there than, clasping her hands to her bosom, she staggered to a lounge and completely collapsed. As she became unconscious her father hurried in for Dr. Conover. He told the girl's parents that the shock of fear she had received so diminished her vital forces that she was in a grave condition. The physician exhausted his skill in the attempt to revive the girl and at 2 o'clock in the morning she died.

RABBIT-HUNTING COYOTES.

Prairie Wolves at Times Display Great Sagacity in Seeking Their Prey.

"On the north side of the Colorado canyon, in northern Arizona, are the Buckskin mountains. Once, while riding along looking at the beautiful scenery, relates a writer in the Washington Star, I noticed that two coyotes were hunting, and they started a big jack rabbit. With a bark and a yelp the chase began. It was worth witnessing from the point of vantage I occupied, and I watched it from the start to the finish. For the first few jumps both coyotes rushed and yapped at the top of their lungs. Then one of them fell back and lay down in the spow until he blended with the landscape. The other coyote forged on at a hard rate after the jack rabbit, following as closely as possible, and keeping up his yelping at a great rate. Little by little the rabbit swerved toward the left until he had finally made the circle and came back near his starting point. As he swung in near the coyote that had stayed behind the latter jumped toward him with a wild shriek of ferocity, and for the next hundred yards or so that rabbit broke all records in his efforts to get away.

"When the waiting coyote took up the pursuit the one who had been doing the chasing dropped down and rested. The next time the rabbit made a wider turn and took a longer time to get back, but back he did come at last, and then the programme was repeated all over again. But the next time the rabbit returned to the starting point he was too exhausted to escape the rested coyote, and fell a victim to his foolishness in returning to a point he had been twice warned to avoid.

"Now, compare such foolishness with the wisdom of the other, who, seeing the footprints of a man near his house, will hide out for a month before returning to that place."

"Nothing Doing" an Old Phrase.

Is the phrase "nothing doing" slang? In the "Creedy Papers," edited by Sir Herbert Maxwell, there is a letter written to Thomas Creedy by a Dr. Currie, dated May 1, 1803. He is referring to Napoleon: "We are all cursed flat here about the spin-out negotiations. Nothing doing. Everything stagnated. We shall have war, because it is just the most absurd thing in creation."

Klem Tells Of Umpire's Troubles

National League Official Says He Feels Lonely When Some One Isn't Calling Him Names. Doesn't Notice Stray Bottles Any More.

The writer recently had a talk with W. J. Klem, the well known National league umpire, after a particularly trying day in St. Louis.

"Mr. Klem," I said, "the public would like to hear the umpire's story—that is, his side of the case. We have heard from the fans and the players. Now we would like to hear from you."

He thought a long while. "Why, I didn't know the umpire had a side in the case," he said, with a laugh. "I'd feel real lonesome if I didn't hear some fan holler 'Dab!' 'Robber!' 'Thief!' 'Lobster!' and a few other things besides."

"But that don't bother me. All I see when I'm on the ball field is the game, the ball players and the ball. The roar of bleachers is natural to my ears. I don't even notice stray beer glasses or bottles nowadays. No, that's right. Why, very frequently I couldn't tell who is at the bat. I know he is on the team, that's all. I just look at the ball and keep tab on it; that's enough to keep me busy. Yes, I know lots of people in the grand stand and bleachers umpire the game differently from the way I do."

"Say! I've been in the grand stand when some other umpire was working, and the line of talk that some of those guys were working off made me take off my collar. On the level, I couldn't stand for it. I had to move away from them."

"Yes, you've got to have plenty of ballast to keep from making an 'inconclusion,' and especially when you see the fans slowly dropping over the rail on to the field. Would I go to the clubhouse to change my clothes? Not on your life!" Here Klem's rather large mouth got to working overtime in a wild west but hat.

"This is my fourth year in professional baseball. I was with the Central State league in 1902, the New York State in 1903, American in 1904 and this year the National.

"They used to have a blind door cut into some of the grand stands for the umpire to make his get-away, but the insurance companies made them cut it out, and generally we have to go straight toward the crowd. No, I don't get rattled. I couldn't deliver the goods if I did," and here he let out another laugh.

"I'm pretty shifty on my pins. One of the chief grand stand plays we have to go up against is a catcher who tries to swing the fans against you by grab."

bing the ball with a quick jerk, pulling it over the plate and then looking at the crowd with a grieving expression that means: 'Ain't it an awful deal? What do you think of this fat headed umpire? What do I say? 'Play ball or the bench for you!'

"In a small town in New York state the ball grounds backed up on a little river. The umpire during a close game handed out a decision that didn't make a bit with the spectators, and they grabbed him and threw him into the river. He was game, however, and took care to give one of the fellows a good ducking along with him."

OCCASIONALLY THE

"WHIRLIGIG"

OF TIME

Runs amuck, toppling over the little affairs and pet projects of our daily lives—knocking down our "houses of cards"—wrecking the routine of home or office or store or factory.

But, happily, since the advent of want advertising, the fearsome little "whirligig" has lost half of its terrors. Its fantastic tricks do not so often spell disaster as in the days before we had learned to harness "publicity."

Now-a-times, when the "whirligig" kidnaps a servant, a tenant, a partner—when a plan is knocked about our ears—when the "whirligig" begins its traditional revenges, delivering packages of trouble C. O. D., we pull ourselves out from under the wreckage and begin to write want ads.

And after a little time we find that publicity has repaired the breakage, and that all is well. Our plans prosper—our routine is restored—and we are ready for the next visit of the "whirligig," ready for good fortune or—another smash.
